Synopsis of Talk:

In this workshop, participant will be able briefed on the followings:

An overview of common behavioural concerns will be provided with an overarching understanding of individuals with Down syndrome. The inappropriate expression of individual needs may at times pose a challenge to those providing the support for individuals with Down syndrome. Increasing understanding of the needs of individuals with Down syndrome along with the encouragement of appropriate behaviours can lead to meaningful participation and contribution to the community.

This talk introduces the functions of behaviours as well as some practical positive approaches to overcome behaviours of concerns.
